No. 19Fragrance by Henri RobertReleased1971LabelChanel Chanel No. 19 perfume was first marketed in 1971. The number 19 was chosen to commemorate Coco Chanel's birthday, 19 August. The perfume was launched a year before she died. The scent was created by Henri Robert.[1] Coco Chanel No. 19 is a balsamic-green scent, compared to the aldehydic Chanel No. 5, the floral Chanel No. 22 and ambrette-green Chanel No. 18. The pure perfume and eau de parfum have a slight greenish tint, and the eau de toilette is pale green. In a recent (c.2000) revamp of No. 19, Chanel has drastically reduced the products available: in the UK the original splash bottles and refillable sprays of Eau de Toilette and Eau de Parfum have been discontinued, as have the two sizes of refillable Parfum spray. The Parfum is now only available in 7.5ml/quarter ounce size bottles. The range of bath and body products, which was previously identical to the comprehensive range available in No. 5, is now reduced to Body Lotion and Bath and Shower Gel. In a number of reviews, Bel Respiro (a 2006 Eau de Toilette from Chanel's Les Exclusifs range) is described having a certain similarity to No. 19, especially in its top notes.[citation needed] Chanel No. 19 contains fragrant notes of galbanum, neroli, bergamot, jasmine, rose, lily of the valley, iris, vetiver, sandalwood, leather and musk. The galbanum and leather on a musky base makes the scent very difficult to classify. Some call it a green floral, others a chypre. The different foci of each concentration (eau de cologne, eau de toilette, eau de parfum, parfum/extrait) also make classification difficult. The current EdP, for example, has a softer floral character, while the classic parfum and extrait are much darker, leathery chypres. Chanel announced the scent "Audacious and assertive. Never conventional".[citation needed]. During the 1970s and 1980s, Chanel No. 19 was advertised with the slogans "The Unexpected Chanel", "The Outspoken Chanel" and "Devastatingly Feminine". Number 19 Eau de Parfum is a floral-woody-green fragrance, a white and green floral harmony. It is a unique blend of light-heartedness and sophistication, not simply a different concentration, but an olfactory reinterpretation, which is faithful to the spirit and base notes of the original composition.[2] In 2011[3] Chanel introduced a flanker to No. 19 called No. 19 Poudré. Jacques Polge, Chanel's house perfumer, is credited with creating No. 19 Poudré.[4] The Eau de Parfum is described by Chanel as "A bold re-imagining of Coco Chanel's signature scent" and describes it as including neroli, galbanum, jasmine, iris, white musk, vetiver, and tonka bean. In No. 19 Poudré, the sharp galbanum and aldehydes of the original are dialed back, and sweeter neroli and iris take their place[5]. The iris is described as lush and fruity, and despite the fragrance's name, less powdery than the iris in No. 19. Chanel No. 19 Poudré comes in 50mL and 100mL Eau de Parfum,[6] as well as Eau de Toilette, deodorant, bath gel and body lotion. ^ "CHANEL Official Website: Fashion, Fragrance, Makeup, Skincare, Watches, Fine Jewellery". This gig tonight is an eagerly anticipated show that was declared sold out within a week of the tickets being on sale. He comes from humble beginnings, as his success wasn't quite over night although, it did all happen rather quickly. Apparently he would be at his home in Chicago working on Logic but nothing much would happen. It was after a meeting with Jamie Jones in Ibiza in the early 00s that changed everything for this artiste. They became close friends and started their own record label called "Hot Natured". Tonight is his hometown comeback show, as he takes to the stage, he receives such a great amount of applause and then launches into some of his mixes. Tonight is all about the "Hot Natured" - Different Sides of the Sun full length studio album. Throughout this performance there isn't a moment where the atmosphere drops significantly. It has all the rises and falls of any set, just with the most animated audience.
